Master's Programme in "Human Rights,
International Criminal Law, and Transitional Justice"

The master's programme in "Human Rights, International Criminal Law, and Transitional Justice" is a one-year program (60 ECTS) designed to educate 30 professionals in the field of Human Rights, International Criminal Law and Transitional Justice.

The program's comprehensive curriculum encompasses current and relevant topics at the local, regional, and international levels.

The call for applications for new students will be announced on September 20, 2023.

The master's programme will start on November 1, 2023.

Eligible candidates for application are students who have successfully completed their undergraduate studies in law, political sciences, public administration, economics, psychology, and humanities.

The language of instruction for the program is English, and it welcomes a diverse group of 30 students from both local and international backgrounds.

The program duration is one academic year (60 ECTS) and will feature:

Expertise from International Co-Professors: Each course will be conducted by an esteemed international Co-Professor, hailing from prestigious universities, including institutions from Europe and the United States. These experts will not only deliver lectures but also provide valuable mentorship.

Tuition Fee Waiver: The program offers a tuition-free education to all enrolled students, regardless of their nationality or origin.

Accommodation for International Students: International students coming from outside Kosovo will be provided accommodation at the University of Prishtina's Student Center at no additional cost.

Scholarships for International Students: A total of eight full scholarships, each covering the study period with a monthly stipend of 600 euros and travel costs, will be available to international students.

Study Visits: The program includes two regular study visits for all students - one to Strasbourg in ECtHR (France) during the first semester and another to The Hague, ICTY, ICC (The Netherlands) in the second semester. Additionally, there will be a study visit to countries in the region for all participants.

Research Internships: All students will have the opportunity to engage in paid research internships at prominent institutions and centers in Kosovo and the surrounding region.

Apart from funding provided by the Faculty of Law at the University of Prishtina, the program is also supported by esteemed partners, including the Government of Switzerland, the United Nations Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, and the Council of Europe.
